Tener Was a Genuine Puzzle to the Home Talent.

JOHN COLEMAN GETS HIS RELEASE.

Rain Prevents Almost All the Games East and West.

GENERAL BASEBALL NEWS OF THE DAY

There is not much generosity in wanting to win every ball game that is played, and a well-designing Providence, doubtless, has arranged earthly affairs in such a way that no National League club need expect to perform any such selfish act. This is, without question, a very wise arrangement, and the wisdom of it is so clear that argument in its support is unnecessary. Our home talent has made Anson and his striplings bite the dust twice this week, and it was meet that defeat should be their lot yesterday so as to keep the other people from absolute despondency. The great question in dispute yesterday afternoon, however, was not whether or not we should win but whether or not we should be covered with a dose of what is metaphorically called whitewash. Depend upon it matters looked as if our representatives couldn't escape that dose. Mr. Anson, doubtless, had his little brushes ready for use, but they were not needed. The pentous question was decided.

The weather was miserable, just such a day that either Chicagoans or anybody can have almost anything they want here to get out of the way. The camp and raw wind that howled across the park placed overcoats at a premium and caused the players to do song and dance tricks in the field. As a result there was barely 2,000 people in the park, and they were certainly uncomfortable. The rain was so threatening at one stage that it was thought the game would be called. The legitimate end was reached, however, and Chicago was awarded its first championship victory of this year. AN AMUSING FRATURE.

There were not many features in the game. commencement Anson began to draw Galvin's attention to a "balk" that Jimmy was making in shrugging his shoulders. Jeems pitched on unheedless of the Chicago Captain's remarks for a time. They became monotonous, however, and the Gentle shouted to Lynch:

"Umpire, will you keep this man quiet?" Lynch called a halt, and gave a very pointed admonition to Anson to "shut up." tickled the crowd, and one member of the bleaching board audience yelled in sarcastic

This timely reminder of the Chicago club's latest moral declaration evidently had an impressive effect on Anson, as he never kicked

The game was somewhat of the onesided kind. True, the visitors should not have made a run until the eighth inning, but they were touching old Galvin up so frequently that their vic tory looked a foregone conclusion. It was one of those days on which Galvin's best or at least most energetic efforts only result in slaughter. The veteran is not in line yet by any means, and it may be opportune here to remark that scarcely a pitcher in the nine is. This, of course, is the usual condition of affairs in the local team at the start off. However, Jimmy was pounded, and quite merrity at that. The ball was knocked far enough and often enough away to win two or three games. With the exception of Kuehne, Galvin had excellent support.

Maul distinguished himself in right field and at bat. Out of the four times he wielded the stick he made three bits. His fielding was equal to any seen here in right field, not en-tirely because of the files he caught, but also because of the many bounders he neatly and on some occasions brilliantly picked up. His elding was one of the features. Tener, that tall, lithe and gentlemanly youth Tener, that tall, lithe and gentlemanly youth from the eastern part of the city, was in the box for the visitors, and if ever a human being fooled other human beings he fooled she Pittsburg sluggers. They couldn't touch him, and at the end of the eighth they only had three little hits. He kept them bugging the bases, also, and, altegether, he did about just as well as anybody else could have done. Tener may hiessom into a reliable and effective pitcher, but it looked toward the close of the game he was being measured up. There is one probability about Tener, viz.: that if he is once sized up he will go all to pieces. He is not like an old stager and can resort to many dodges and arts. However, it is fair to say that he gave an excellent exhibition of pitching yesterday. He was also well supported by Farreli and the halance of his colleagues. Duffy and Pfeffer really did stop what appeared to be corking hits beyond the shadow of a doubt. In the third inning Pfeffer stopped a terrific grounder from Miller's but that won him rounds of appeared with the Chicagos and played right field. He had no chanoes and was not very successful at the bat.

The visitors were the first to score, and they

at the bat.

The visitors were the first to score, and they tallied three in the third inning. Ryan opened the inning and rapped a lively grounder in front of Kuehne. The latter was in excellent position to get it, but it went clean through between his legs, and Ryan got to first safely. Van Haitren fiew out to Maul, and Duffy fouled out to Miller.

The side ought now to have been out. Anson, with his big bat and brawny arms, loomed up and knocked out a single to right, and Pfeffer's single sent Ryan home and Anson reached third on Kuehne's muff of a thrown ball by Miller. Farrell came up and walloped out a adouble to left field, bringing both Anson and *double to left field, bringing both Anson and Pfeffer home.

The eighth inning was lively, indeed. Mr. Pfeffer smilingly took Jimmy's measure for a corking triple to deep center field. Farrell again rapped out a single, bringing Pfeffer home and reached second himself on a passed ball. Burns knocked out a single and Farrell scored. Then Sommers banged out a double over Hanlon's head and Tommy Burns ambied home. Tener was put out at first, Sommers reaching third on the sacrifice. Ryan brought Sommers home by a good single to middle. The next two men were retired in order.

The home players made their only run in the last uning. Miller led off with a double and scored on Beckley's long single to left field. Dunlap flew out to Ryan and Carroll got his bases on balls. Maul made a single, filling the bases, and there was a dim hope of victory as Kuchne came to bat. He made a good bluff by knocking the ball to the right field fence, but about six inches outside the foul line. He then struck out and "Pop" Smith flew out to Ryan, leaving the bases full. Following is the full score:

He Will be Given a Chance to Go Where He Likes. A start has been made in disposing of the surplus players of the local club. John Coleman is the first to be notified that his services are no longer required. Yesterday Manager Phillips told Coleman that ten days from date he could consider himself unconditionally re-leased. The ten days' notice is required by rule so as to give any of the other League clubs rule so as to give any of the other League clubs a chance to sign Coleman. Mr. Phillips, however, states that he will get the other clubs to waive claim on Coleman so that he can go where he chooses.

Manl is to be retained for a time at least. One of the chief reasons why he has been kept instead of Coleman is that he can go into the box now and again. The club officials state that they will do all in their power to secure Coleman a good engagement. He will be paid his salary for the next ten days, whether he signs pefore then or not.

Will Live at Staten Island. NEW YORK, April 26.-The Boston-New York

game scheduled for to-day was postponed on account of the rain. To-morrow's game will also be postponed and will be played later in the season, as St. George, Staten Island, cannot be made ready before next week. The Giants will all live this year on Staten Island, and the Champions will begin to-merrow a grand boarding house hunt.

Stopped by Rain Again. WASHINGTON, April 26.-The heavy rain storm which set in here on Wednesday night continues to-day, and therefore there was a further postponement of the National Jockey Club races and the game of baseball between the Philadelphia and Washington clubs.

STILL WINNING.

The Browns Get Six Straight From the Hamfatters. St. Louis, April 26.-The Browns continu to keep up their magnificent winning streak defeating Cincinnati again to-day for the sixth successive time. They outplayed the visitors at every point and batted out the victory with case. Smith was not as effective as formerly, Chamberiain pitched in wonderful form and was beautifully supported throughout, Boyle, especially, showing up strong behind the bat. Boyle got in his accustomed three hits. Score: St. Louis ... Cincinnatis.

TROTTING IN ENGLAND.

Alleged Crooked Work Has Caused Great Change. Trotting, aithough so popular in America, has never been really in favor in England, says has never been really in favor in England, says the London Field, owing in part to the ques-tionable practices with which it has been sur-rounded, and partly because fashion never lent its countenance to the amusement. It is not, however, unreasonable to assert that trotting, properly carried out, may do for our harness horses what racing and steeplechasing have done for our hunters. The National Trotting Association came to an end last year, and its decease may possibly prove to be the best thing that could have happened if trotting is to take a place in the list of English amusements. The place in the list of English amusements. The old association stood in the way of many necessary reforms, but flow that it is defunct a strenuous attempt is being made to place trotting upon a more satisfactory basis.

The first step toward regeneration has been the formation of the Alexandra Park Trotting Club, of which Sir Edward Lee is President. A new code of rules, formed upon the lines of those in vogue in America, has been drawn up, and includes some stringest provisious against those dishonest practices which in the past have done so much to bring trotting into disrepute. The new departure has been so far successful that 100 persons have joined the club, although its first meeting was held no longer ago than March 11. Six meetings will be held in the course of the forthcoming season. The first is fixed for Mav 6 and 7, and will take place at Alexandra Park.

At the Sandown Park spring meeting to-day the Walton two-vear-olds race for 1,000 sov, was won by J. A. Craven's Charlotteville. The Fisher stakes (a mid-weight handicap), one mile, was won by Lord Alington's King Fisher.

LOUISVILLE, KY., April 26.-It is announce that Mr. B. F. Harper will attempt to lower the mile record of Ten Brocck with the mare Valuable. The mare is a daughter of Ten Broeck and is 5 years old. At a private trial recently she went a mile in 1:40, and it is believed by Mr. Harper that she can excel her sire's great record of 1:394. The race against time will be made some time during the spring meeting of the Jockey Club.

Boston, April 26,-The 250 spectators gathered at the rooms of the Bay State Club to-night saw a stubborn glove contest between Cal McCarthy, of New York, and Johnny Murphy, of this city, for trophies valued at $800 and $200 respectively. McCarthy was the favorite before the match, almost any odds eing offered in his favor, but the Boston man savorite before the match, almost say dots being offered in his favor, but the Boston man surprised even those who best knew his capabilities. The men were in fine condition, stripping at 115 pounds. From the start McCarthy forced the fighting, but Murphy laid in wait for him and returned his blows with interest. In the first round there was savage work and Murphy twice knocked his opponent to the floor. The last blow broke a bone in Murphy's forearm, but this did not deter him from continuing the fight.

For three more rounds Murphy bested McCarthy, using only his right hand, and in the third round again knocked McCarthy down. In the fourth round Murphy's seconds absolutely refused to allow him to continue, although he vigorously declared his ability to best McCarthy. The fight was accordingly awarded to "Cal." It was the opinion of many in the crowd that had Murphy not met with the accident he would have knocked McCarthy out within ten rounds. Al Smith, of New York, was referee.

Thought the best way out of the dilemma was to enter him there, where everybbdy can see for themselves and have an equal chance. I am not much of a man to overrate them, and have merely stated his record, 2:1834, but think him a better horse this spring than he ever was in his life. While he is an exceptionally fine road horse, it would be almost a sin against racing to use him for that purpose, as I consider him a good horse in his class and able to beat his record."
